The LX is the optioned out version of the LS2000. Both have two 135hp engines. The best way and only real way to test an engine is do a compression test on all 6 cylinders. If you had the time a leakdown test would also be appropriate. When doing the compression test you need to pull the safety lanyard to kill the ignition or you will damage the ignition. I would love to give $7000 for a good ...
